Bresaola & Bufala Toast

FROM NELL'S KITCHEN

A good sandwich can feel like a little indulgence, especially when every ingredient brings something to the bite.

Serves 2 · Prep 15 min

INGREDIENTS

- 4 slices of half-white, half-wholemeal toast bread
- 1 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- 100 g thinly sliced bresaola
- 125 g mozzarella di bufala, drained and sliced
- 1 large roasted red pepper, peeled, deseeded and cut into strips
- A generous handful of rocket
- 15–20 g Parmesan shavings
- 1–2 tsp balsamic glaze, to taste

METHOD

1. Drain the mozzarella well and gently pat it dry. If using jarred roasted peppers, drain and pat those dry too.
2. Lightly brush the bread with olive oil. Toast in a frying pan or on a griddle until lightly golden, keeping a little softness in the centre.
3. Divide the bresaola between two slices of bread, arranging it in loose folds.
4. Layer with the buffalo mozzarella and roasted red pepper strips.
5. Add the rocket and Parmesan shavings, then finish with a light drizzle of balsamic glaze.
6. Close with the remaining bread slices, press gently and cut in half. Serve immediately.

Tip

Drain the mozzarella thoroughly. Its creaminess is lovely in the sandwich, but excess liquid will soften the bread.
