Sticky Soy & Beef Beef

FROM NELL'S KITCHEN

I love Asian food and often find myself craving its bold, savoury flavours.

INGREDIENTS

FOR THE BEEF AND MARINADE

- 1 kg Australian striploin beef, thinly sliced against the grain
- 2 tbsp soy sauce
- ½ tsp baking soda
- 2 tbsp cornstarch
- 2 tbsp vegetable oil

FOR THE SAUCE

- 4 tbsp soy sauce
- 4 tbsp hoisin sauce
- 1 tbsp brown sugar
- 2 tsp toasted sesame oil
- 2 tsp cornstarch
- 4 tbsp cold water

FOR THE STIR-FRY

- 2 medium onions, cut into wedges, with the layers separated
- 1–2 red chillies, sliced, to taste
- 2 tbsp vegetable oil, divided, plus a little extra if needed
- 3 spring onions, thinly sliced
- 1 tbsp toasted sesame seeds
- Cooked basmati rice, to serve (optional)

METHOD

1. Place the sliced beef in a bowl with the soy sauce, baking soda, cornstarch and vegetable oil. Mix thoroughly to coat, then cover and refrigerate for 20 minutes.
2. In a separate bowl, whisk together all the sauce ingredients until the sugar and cornstarch are evenly mixed.
3. Heat one tablespoon of vegetable oil in a large wok or frying pan over medium-high heat. Add the onion wedges and chillies. Stir-fry for 2–3 minutes, until the onions begin to soften but still have some bite. Transfer to a plate.
4. Turn the heat up high and add a little of the remaining oil. Cook the beef in small batches, spreading the slices across the pan so they sear rather than steam. Cook briefly on each side until browned and just cooked, transferring each batch to a plate.
5. Return all the beef, onions and chillies to the pan. Stir the sauce again to lift any settled cornstarch, then pour it in.
6. Toss over the heat for 1–2 minutes, until the sauce bubbles, thickens and coats the beef in a glossy glaze.
7. Finish with the spring onions and toasted sesame seeds. Serve immediately over fluffy basmati rice.

Tip

Slice against the grain. Cutting across the muscle fibres helps keep each bite tender.
